Preface of Integrity Circle

Introduction:

Corruption is a social evil and a great menace in the modern world. It not only undermines the growth of developed countries but also a great threat to the economic, social and political development for the developing and under developed countries. It also affects the moral fabric of the society as a whole particularly with regards to children.

Today's children are tomorrow's responsible citizens. A citizen can become responsible when he is having good principles, moral values and social belongingness in his life. With this noble quality, a student can contribute much towards development of society at large. With the said objective during 2014, HAL Management introduced integrity circles in various HAL schools to transform the students to learn about Ethics, Morality and make them self-sufficient, self-reliable and create social belongingness and enable to become responsible citizens of the country. The aim is to inculcate among the students to contribute and be a part of the society for communal harmony and national integrity/unity.

Vision:

"To develop children in HAL schools as responsible and integral citizens of India".

Mission:

"To nurture core human values and strengthen the moral fabric of children through organised activities, exposure to society and interactions with people of eminence".

INTEGRITY CIRCLE

HAL - Expanding the Circle Of Integrity

Foreword

I am extremely delighted to present the publication 'Disha', a novel initiative conceptualized by the Integrity Circle of HAL schools. The word Integrity derives from the Latin noun 'integritas' which means "wholeness", "completeness" or "soundness". As the meaning of the word suggests, Integrity is the foundation which brings completeness to one's character.

In today's fast-moving world, the focus is on material success, irrespective of the means adopted to achieve it. As children are the future of the society, inculcating moral values in their young minds will go a long way to strengthen the ethical fabric of the Nation. When we anchor integrity in the young citizens they naturally put in more thoughts to their daily actions, which is a vital step in the right direction.

The stories, poems, articles, posters, slogans etc in this booklet written by the children of HAL schools convey the impression that they have a strong foundation of moral values.

I congratulate all the young minds and their teachers as well as their parents for guiding their efforts to a fruitful compilation. The contents of the booklet will definitely motivate other children in shaping their character with clarity and conviction.

I compliment the HAL vigilance team for their outstanding contribution to this initiative.

INTEGRITY CIRCLE

HAL - Expanding the Circle Of Integrity

Foreword

This is the second edition of Disha Magazine, a book compiled by the students of Integrity Circle. The concept and formation of Integrity Circle for the students of HAL schools was initiated way back in 2014 with the co-ordination of vigilance department. HAL management has shown extreme care in supporting the activities of Integrity Circle. Today, Integrity Circle functions full-fledged with monthly, quarterly and yearly activities across all the schools of HAL.

The Central Vigilance Commission has often emphasised the importance of imbibing ethical values in the young minds so that future citizens inculcate the values of uprightness. Keeping this in mind, Integrity Circle has provided the students a platform to explore and reaffirm the importance of truth in action.

The youth are not just the future of our Nation; they are its conscience. When students commit to ethical living, they create a ripple effect in the society to which they belong. The activities of Integrity Circle are directed towards achieving this long-term goal!

The students have contributed to this booklet from their thoughts, experiences and reflections and their contributions created a resource that can inspire fellow students. The reflections put forth by the students in the booklet demonstrates that they are not just passive observers of the society but also are active architects of its moral fabric.

I wish the Integrity Circle and all those associated with this publication continued success in their endeavours.

The True Strength of Righteous Heart

The Mahabharata contains many stories of courage, wisdom, and sacrifice, but the life of Yudhishthira teaches us one of the greatest lessons about integrity. He was the eldest of the Pandavas and was known as Dharmaraja, the king who always tried to follow the path of righteousness.

During their years of exile, the Pandavas once reached a forest where they were exhausted and thirsty. Yudhishthira sent his brothers one after another to find water. When they reached a beautiful lake, a mysterious voice warned them not to drink the water until they answered his questions. Ignoring the warning, each brother drank the water and fell unconscious.

Finally, Yudhishthira came to the lake. He saw his four brothers lying motionless on the ground. Though he was frightened and heartbroken, he remained calm. The mysterious voice revealed itself as a Yaksha and told Yudhishthira that he could drink the water only after answering a series of questions.

The Yaksha asked, “What is the greatest wonder in the world?”

Yudhishthira replied, “Every day, countless creatures die, yet those who remain believe that they will live forever. Nothing is more astonishing than this”.

The Yaksha continued asking questions about duty, wisdom, happiness and righteousness.

Yudhishthira answered each one thoughtfully and honestly. Impressed by his wisdom and integrity, the Yaksha offered him a reward: he could choose one of his brothers to be brought back to life.

Yudhishthira faced a difficult choice. Bhima was extremely strong, while Arjuna was the greatest archer among the Pandavas. Either would be invaluable to the family. Yet Yudhishthira chose Nakula, his younger half- brother.

The Yaksha was surprised, “Why did you choose Nakula instead of Bhima or Arjuna who are more important to your future?” he asked.

Yudhishthira replied, “My father, Pandu, had two wives, Kunti and Madri. I am Kunti’s son, and Bhima and Arjuna are also her sons. Nakula is Madri’s son. Since Kunti already has me alive, it is only fair that Madri should also have one of her sons alive”

The Yaksha was deeply pleased by Yudhishthira’s sense of justice. He revealed himself as Dharma, Yudhishthira’s divine father and restored all four brothers to life.

This story shows that integrity is not merely about telling the truth. It means doing what is right even when we have the power to choose what benefits us personally. Yudhishthira could have easily chosen Bhima or Arjuna, but he put fairness above personal advantage.

This decision teaches that true character is revealed during difficult choices. Integrity may not always give us the easiest path, but it gives us something far more valuable- trust, respect, and inner strength.

As Yudhishthira’s story reminds us a person’s greatness is not measured only by power of success. It is built through every honest and righteous decision we make, especially when nobody can force us to do the right thing.

Integrity builds character and character builds a life worth of respect.

Integrity – The Golden Crown

Not every crown is made of gold
The greatest treasures can't be sold.
A truthful heart, a soul sincere will shine through every doubt and fear.

When no one sees the choices, we make
Integrity is the path we take.
It speaks in silence, calm and bright choosing truth instead of might.

The world may praise the rich and strong.
But character lives forever long
For fame may fade and wealth may fly
Yet honesty will never die

A gentle word, a helping hand
Can heal a heart and help it stand
The strongest people are not those who win
But those who never betray within.

So, build your life on truth each day
Let kindness always lead your way
For when the final page is turned
Integrity is what we've truly earned

Integrity choosing principles, truth, conscience.

In the world increasingly captivated by appearances, achievements, and instant recognition, integrity remains the quietest yet most formidable measure of character. It is the unwavering alignment of our thoughts, words and actions-even when nobody is watching.

As C.S. Lewis aptly said: "Integrity is doing the right thing, even when no one is watching". True character is not forged through grand declarations but through the small choices we make every day: speaking the truth, accepting responsibility, resisting temptation and treating others with fairness. Integrity demands courage because doing what is right is not always convenient. It may mean refusing an undeserved advantage, admitting a mistake or standing alone against what is unjust, such moments reveal the substance of our character far more profoundly than any achievement even could.

Aristotle's timeless observation, "We are what we repeatedly do", reminds us that character is cultivated through habit. Every honest decision strengthens the moral fibre within us; every compromise weakens it. Over time, our choices cease to be isolated actions and become reflections of who we are.

In an era where reputation can be constructed instantly, integrity cannot be fabricated. Success may earn status but integrity earns trust. Knowledge may make us capable; ambition may make us accomplished, but character determines how we use both.

Ultimately; building character through integrity means choosing principle over popularity, truth over convenience and conscience over compromise. For, when titles fade and achievements are forgotten, it is not what we possessed that defines us, but the person we chose to become.

काश मैं कलकल एक धारा होती
चट्टानों को चीरकर अपना रास्ता बनाती,
हर रुकावट को पार कर आगे बढ़ जाती।
काश मैं सुबह की पहली किरण होती,
अंधकार मिटाकर जग रोशन कर जाती।

काश मैं एक अटल वृक्ष होती,
आंधी-तूफान में भी टिकी रह जाती।
काश मैं शांत बयार होती,
पहली बारिश की पहली बूंद होती,
सबका मन बदलाकर, चेहरे खिला जाती।

खैर, मैं वो तो हूँ नहीं
जब खुद को इन रूपों में डाला, तब समझी
कि मेरा वजूद ही मेरी सीख है,
सत्य और निष्ठा की छाँव तले जाती हूँ
और अपनी ही सादगी से खुद को सींचती हूँ।

सीख: सच्चा चरित्र खुद को तोलने में नहीं, बल्कि खुद को पहचानने और अपने वजूद को अपनाकर सत्यनिष्ठ रहने में है। 'काश' का तो कभी कोई अंत नहीं खैर में जीकर अच्छा चरित्र अपनाना चाहिए।

The Bamboo Flute

Every summer, fourteen-year-old Aravesh spent holidays in his grandfather's small workshop. The old man was known across nearby villages for making bamboo flutes. People admired the sweet melodies they produced, but very few knew that age had slowly taken away his job. One afternoon Aravesh watched his grandfather reject a beautifully polished flute." It looks perfect", Aravesh said "Why throw it away?". His grandfather ran his fingers gently over the bamboo and said "Feel this". Aravesh noticed a hairline crack near one of the finger holes. "But no one will notice ever" he replied. "They may not," his grandfather said softly, "but I will". A flute with a hidden crack may still look beautiful, yet its music will never be true. Character is no different. The smallest crack in integrity weakens the person within. Those words stayed with Aravesh.

Years passed. His grandfather was no more, but the little workshop remained. Aravesh continued making flutes, just he had been taught us. One day he received the biggest order of his life. The flutes were to be delivered and displayed at a state – level handicraft exhibition. As he checked the final piece, he discovered the same tiny crack his grandfather had once shown him. For a moment he hesitated. If he had to start again, he would miss the exhibition. No one would notice the flaw. Then he remembered the old hands that had chosen honesty over profit every single time. Without another thought, Aravesh set the flute aside and began again. He missed the exhibition; he lost the chance to win the price. Weeks later, a music teacher visited his workshop after hearing the incident.

with Crack

Soon more musicians followed. They came not because Aravesh made the cheapest flutes or the fastest ones, but because they trusted the flutes that left his hand.

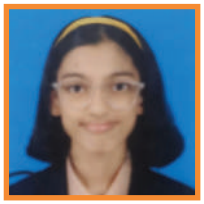

without Crack

Standing quietly in the workshop, Aravesh picked up a finished flute and smiled, realizing that his grandfather had merely taught him to shape his character not only the bamboo flute.

MORAL: A flawless flute creates beautiful music, but integrity builds character, trust and respect.

Speak the truth and do what's right,
Keep your values strong and bright
when no one sees, let HONESTY lead.
For INTEGRITY is a powerful seed.

Be kind and fair in all you do.
Let your actions reflect what is true
with COURAGE and TRUST let character grow,
And make you inner GOODNESS show.

Wealth may fade and SUCCESS may depart,
But integrity STRENGTHENS the heart.
Build your character day by day,
And let your values LIGHT the way.

Through every decade, VALUES change its form,
Yet, integrity stands firm against each storm,
It teaches us to perceive what glitter cannot show,
That CHARACTER is built by every choice we grow.

सत्यनिष्ठा: व्यक्ति की वास्तविक पहचान

मनुष्य के जीवन में चरित्र का महत्वपूर्ण स्थान है। चरित्र ही व्यक्ति की वास्तविक पहचान होती है। धन, पद और प्रसिद्धि समय के साथ बदल सकते हैं, लेकिन एक अच्छे चरित्र वाला व्यक्ति हमेशा सम्मान का पात्र रहता है। चरित्र निर्माण का सबसे मजबूत आधार सत्यनिष्ठा है। सत्यनिष्ठा का अर्थ है हर परिस्थिति में सत्य का साथ देना, ईमानदारी बनाए रखना तथा अपने कर्तव्यों का निष्ठापूर्वक पालन करना। सत्यनिष्ठ व्यक्ति अपने विचारों, वचनों और कर्मों में एकरूपता रखता है। वह किसी भी प्रकार के प्रलोभन, भय या दबाव के कारण अपने सिद्धांतों से समझौता नहीं करता। ऐसा व्यक्ति समाज में विश्वास और सम्मान अर्जित करता है। उसके व्यवहार से दूसरों को भी सत्य और ईमानदारी के मार्ग पर चलने की प्रेरणा मिलती है। चरित्र निर्माण की शुरुआत परिवार से होती है। विद्यालय में शिक्षक नैतिक शिक्षा अनुशासन और कर्तव्यपरायणता के माध्यम से इन मूल्यों को और सुदृढ़ करते हैं । यदि बचपन से ही बच्चों को सत्य का मार्ग अपनाने की प्रेरणा मिले तो वे भविष्य में आदर्श नागरिक बनकर समाज और राष्ट्र की प्रगति में महत्वपूर्ण योगदान देते हैं है।

इतिहास ऐसे अनेक उदाहरणों से भरा पड़ा है, जिन्होंने सत्यनिष्ठा के बल पर अमरता प्राप्त की। राजा हरिश्चंद्र ने सत्य की रक्षा के लिए अपना राज्य, परिवार और सुख वैभव तक त्याग दिया, किन्तु असत्य का आश्रय नहीं लिया। महात्मा गांधी ने सत्य और अहिंसा को अपना जीवन दर्शन अपनाया तथा इन्हीं सिद्धांतों के बल पर भारत को स्वतंत्रता दिलाने के आन्दोलन का नेतृत्व किया। उनका जीवन हमें सिखाता है कि सत्य की राह कठिन अवश्य होती है, परन्तु अंततः विजय उसी की होती है। आज के आधुनिक युग में प्रतियोगिता और भौतिक सफलता की दौड़ ने अनेक लोगों को गलत मार्ग अपनाने के लिए प्रेरित किया है।

स्वामी विवेकानंद ने कहा था सत्य के लिए सब कुछ छोड़ा जा सकता है, पर किसी भी वस्तु के लिए सत्य को नहीं छोड़ा जा सकता। यह कथन हमें सत्यनिष्ठा के महत्व का बोध कराता है। यदि प्रत्येक व्यक्ति अपने जीवन में सत्य ईमानदारी और नैतिकता को सर्वोच्च स्थान दे, तो परिवार सुदृढ़ होगा, समाज संस्कारित होगा और राष्ट्र समृद्ध बनेगा। अंत: सत्यनिष्ठा चरित्र निर्माण की आधारशिला ही नहीं, बल्कि उज्ज्वल भविष्य का प्रकाशस्तंभ भी है। हमें यह संकल्प लेना चाहिए कि जीवन की हर परिस्थिति में सत्य का साथ देंगे,ईमानदारी को अपना धर्म बनाएंगे और अपने श्रेष्ठ चरित्र से समाज तथा राष्ट्र के लिए प्रेरणा बनेंगे। यही सच्चे अर्थों में चरित्रवान नागरिक होने की पहचान है।

The crowded high school hallways hum with whispers of the key,
A leaked exam sent right before the early morning bell.
It's quiet easy to surrender everything you claim to be,
Just to fit inside the simple stories that the others tell.

They measure every person's worth by numbers written on a page,
Demanding fast results and quick applause for victories unearned.
But standing truly steady on the quiet, unremembered stage,
Is still the absolute greatest, most enduring lesson I have learned.

I refuse to wear a polished mask just to win a fleeting race,
Nor trade my personal authentic voice to follow with the crowd.
The choices made in silence, when there's no one left to trace,
Are the ones that make my own future self-feel deeply, genuinely proud.

So let the heavy pressure push and pull against my solid ground,
My internal compass always points directly to what is right.
An honest heart will never break, no matter what is found,
And it shines a light through darkness even when path is out of sight.

Profit for Today: Integrity for future

In Sunabeda, there was a small electrical shop called "Bharat Lights". It was run by 42 years old Sameer and his 19 years old daughter, Aanya. After his wife passed away, the shop and Aanya's college fees were all on Sameer's shoulders.

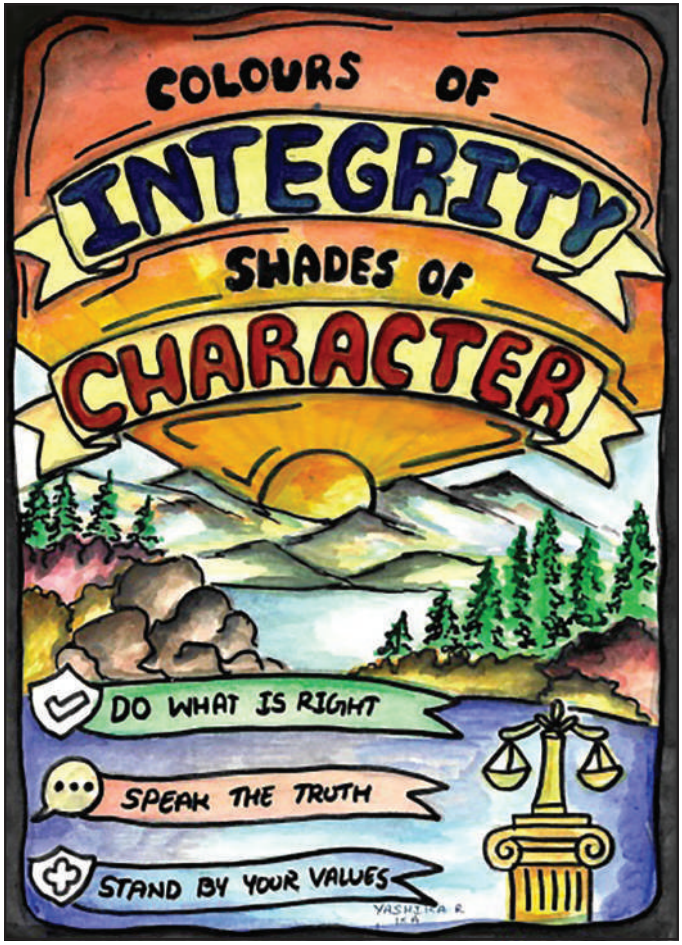

Business was slow. Big chain stores were opening nearby with discounts. For 3 months, Bharat Lights barely made rent. One evening, a government contractor walked in. He was in a hurry. "I need 200 LED Panels for a new School. Can you deliver in 5 days? Budget is Rs.4,00,000/-." Sameer's heart jumped. That one order could pay rent of 6 months and Aanya's fees. He made the quote. The contractor looked at it and leaned in. "Listen, put Rs.3,60,000/- on the bill, keep Rs.40,000/- cash. No one will know. "The school won't check each box and give me 20 panels that are "B-grade" They look the same." Aanya was at the counter, she froze.

That night, Sameer couldn't sleep. Rs.40,000/- cash that was Aanya's fees for next 2 semesters. The B-grade panels would probably last 2 years, not 5. But who would know? The school was 50km away. He remembered his father's words told 25 years ago, when they started the shop: "Beta, we sell light. If we start selling darkness, people will stop trusting light." His father had once returned Rs. 2,000/- to a customer who was overcharged, even though they needed the money that week. They ate dal for 10 days. But customers never let them down. Next morning, Sameer called the contractor "Sir, I can do 200 panels in 5 days. But only A-grade, with full bill of Rs.4,00,000/-. I don't do B-grade or cash deals. The contractor laughed. "You'll go broke with principles." He hung up and gave the order to a chain store. For the next month, things got worse. Aanya saw her father checking old accounts at night.

She offered to take a loan. "No" he said. "We'll manage". Then something strange happened. The headmistress of the school came to Bharat Lights. "We heard you refused that Government order" she said. "The panels from the chain store started flickering in 2 months. Children are studying in half- light." She placed a file on the counter. "We have 8 Schools in the block. We want one vendor who can be trusted for 5 years. Maintenance, warranty everything. Can you do it? Sameer didn't shout. He didn't cry. He just looked at Aanya and nodded. That contract wasn't Rs. 4,00,000/. It was Rs. 18,00,000/- over 5 years and it came with referrals to 3 other villages. Years later, Bharat Lights expanded. Aanya managed the accounts. On the wall behind the counter, in her father's handwriting was one line: "Profit is for today; Character is for every tomorrow."

Sameer never got that Rs. 40,000/-. But he got something, that money couldn't buy. When he walked through those 8 schools and saw bright classrooms, he knew the light was real and so he was.

The Crown: No Darkness can Steal

Before the world engrave a name in stone,
Before a soul's true worth is known,
There lies a kingdom beyond the sight,
Where choices are forged in the silent night.
No trumpet sounds, no crowds applaud,
Yet there, we shape the self we guard.

Within the hidden halls of the heart,
A quiet sculptor creates its art.
With truth as the chisel, courage as flame,
It carves a spirit beyond mere fame.
Each honest step, each kindness shown,
Builds a legacy forever our own.

When storms awaken and shadows appear,
When the easy path whispers near,
The unseen crown begins to shine –
Not with jewels, but with virtues divine.
Forged through patience, polished through pain,
It rises stronger after every rain.

So let not the world decide your worth,
By fleeting treasures of dust and earth.
Build a kingdom no time can break,
With every choice and promise you make.
For crowns may vanish, and empires fall,
But the crown within the soul will outshine them all.

Integrity: Living the Truth

Abhinav & Dhruthiganga

Class IX B
HAL Public School

In an era where success is often measured by achievements, influence and material wealth, one timeless virtue continues to define the true worth of individual integrity. It is the unwavering commitment to honesty, ethical conduct and moral courage regardless of recognition or reward. Integrity is not merely about speaking the truth, it is about living the truth through every decision and action.

Character is not built-in moments of triumph but in the quiet choices made when no one is watching. Every honest action, every promise kept, every responsibility accepted and every temptation resisted contributes to the formation of a strong and principled character. Such individuals become trustworthy not because they seek admiration, but because their values remain steadfast even in the face of adversity.

For students, integrity extends far beyond academic honesty. It is reflected in respecting others, acknowledging mistakes with humility, standing against injustice and choosing fairness over convenience. These seemingly ordinary actions cultivate discipline, resilience and compassion, the qualities of responsible citizens and ethical leaders. Integrity is not an abstract ideal but a way of life that transforms individuals and strengthen the society. A nation progresses not only through scientific advancement or economic prosperity but also through the character of the people.

Ultimately, achievements may earn applause, but integrity earns something far more enduring-respect, trust and a legacy of honour. Let integrity be the cornerstone upon which your character is built and the guiding light that shapes your future.

ईमानदारी से चरित्र निर्माण

सत्यनिष्ठा की नींव पर ही हर महान चरित्र टिकता है,
जहां सच्चाई का पहर हो, वहां इंसान कभी न बिकता है।
झूठ के शीशमहल अक्सर एक झोंके में ढह जाते हैं,
पर ईमानदारी के पक्के इरादे हर तूफान सह जाते हैं।

सत्यनिष्ठा वह गुप्त मशाल है, जो एकांत में भी जलती है, जब कोई न देख रहा हो, तब भी सही राह पर चलती है।
लालच के आसान शार्टकट को जो हंसकर ठुकरा देता है,
वही इंसान इस दुनिया में मिसाल अपनी बना देता है।

जैसे गहरी जड़ों के बल पर विशाल वृक्ष लहराता है,
वैसे ही सत्य के सिद्दांतों से ऊँचा चरित्र बन पाता है।
साहस कर्तव्य और ईमानदारी, जीवन के सच्चे गहने हैं,
इन्हीं अमूल्य संस्कारों के बल पर हमको आगे बढ़ना है।

आओ अपने हर एक कर्म में सत्य का दीप जलाएं हम,
अटूट सत्यनिष्ठा के दम पर एक उज्ज्वल चरित्र बनाएं हम।
न झुकेंगे कभी गलत कार्यों के आगे, यह सौगंध खाते हैं,
इसी मजबूत चरित्र से ही हम नए भारत को बनाते हैं।

Through The Lens of Truth

The western sky had melted into shades of amber and rose, casting a soft glow over the corridors of the school. The photograph was for the school's annual competition, and Elanor had spent weeks searching for a memorable scene. She found it in the basketball court, where fading sunlight painted the ground gold. Earlier, the wind had swept loose papers across the courtyard. She adjusted the focus and pressed the shutter.

Click.

She smiled—until a figure near the edge of the frame caught her attention. She zoomed in. It was Daniel, holding an envelope. Daniel had been accused of stealing the answer sheets after he was seen carrying the envelope away from the Quiz room. He insisted that he had found it abandoned and was taking it to Mr. James, but no one had believed him. Behind him, papers lay scattered across the open Quiz-room door. She remembered the paper from earlier. The pieces fell into place: Daniel had not taken the answer sheets; he had found them.

Then Elanor noticed a bracelet beside the papers. It belonged to Anne, her closest friend. Earlier, Elanor had noticed Anne nervously twisting that bracelet around her wrist. The memory returned with startling clarity. Anne had access to the answer sheets. She must have dropped them while moving them, then panicked. Daniel had found them—and became the one everyone blamed.

Elanor's thumb hovered over the delete button. If she deleted the photograph, nobody would know. Her entry could win. The prize mattered to her. She remembered Daniel's face and lowered the camera. Integrity was not about doing the right thing when it was easy. It was about refusing to stay silent when the truth was within your reach.

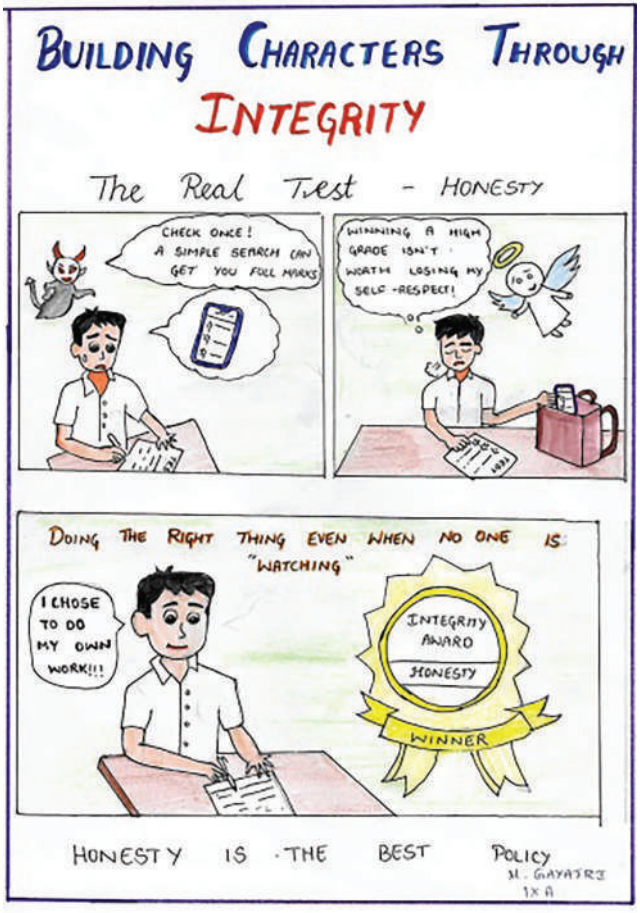

Elanor hurried to the staff room. “Sir,” she said, holding out her camera, “I think you should see this.” Mr. James studied the photograph. His expression changed. He asked for Anne and Daniel, then turned to Anne after hearing both sides. “Is there something you need to tell me?” Anne lowered her eyes. “I panicked, sir. I didn't mean for Daniel to be blamed.” Mr. James turned to Daniel. “I'm sorry. You should never have been accused.”

Daniel's accusation was withdrawn the following morning. Elanor's photograph never reached the competition; she had missed the deadline while helping clarify what happened. The sunset was still beautiful, and the basketball court was still bathed in gold. But now, the photograph meant more. It had captured more than a beautiful evening. It had captured the truth.

Months later, when someone asked Elanor why she had sacrificed the competition, she simply smiled and said, "Because some things are worth more than just earning a medal for oneself." She thought she was looking through a camera lens. She was really learning to look through the lens of truth. She had set out to capture a beautiful moment. Instead, she had captured a choice— and, in making it, discovered the person she wanted to become.

The Enlightened Heart

A good heart does what is right
Even when there is no one in sight,
It does not boast or try to show
It helps the goodness inside grow.

It speaks the truth and stays kind
With a calm and gentle side,
It does not look for any prize
It just looks through honest eyes.

You do your best when all alone
No need to make your choices known,
To be quite true and plain
Is the best way to live and gain.

Keep this light inside your heart
And always try to do your best!,
A simple life of love and grace
Brings peace and joy to human race.

Integrity: A way of building self-respect

Character is who we are when no one is watching. And integrity is the tool that builds it. Integrity means doing the right thing even when it is hard, costly or invisible. It is the bridge between what we believe and what we do. Every time we cross that bridge, our character gets stronger.

First, integrity builds self-respect. When you keep a promise to yourself-studying instead of scrolling, telling the truth instead of an easy lie-you prove to yourself that you can be trusted. That inner trust becomes confidence. Without it, we depend on others to tell us we are good; with it, we already know.

Second, integrity builds trust with others. People do not follow the smartest person; but the most consistent person. A student who admits a mistake, a worker who owns a delay, a friend who keeps a secret, these small acts compound. Over a time, people say, "I can count on them" and that reputation is character in action.

Third, integrity gives us a compass under pressure. Temptations like money, time, peer pressure to cut corners will always come. If we practice integrity in small things, we will not collapse in big ones. We will have a habit to fall back.

Character is not built in one heroic moment. It is built daily. In returning extra change, in doing full work when the boss is not there, in choosing honesty over approval. In the end, skills may open doors. But, integrity is what keeps them open. Build your character with it, one choice at a time.

The legacy I choose to be

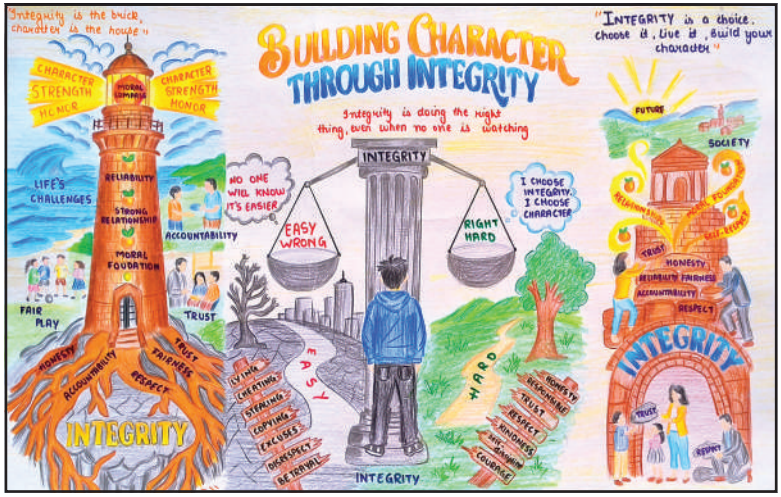

I have a compass that no one can hold,
it paints to truth when stories are sold.
It's not in my pocket, it's deep inside,
called Integrity – My lifelong guide.

Some days it's hard, some days it's tough,
to choose the right when easy is enough.
But character grows in those small fights,
in choosing the wrong and turning to right.

So let my work and let my name,
stand for something, not just for a gain.
Building character through Integrity – That's the legacy.

The Scoreboard

The final match of the inter-house basketball competition was closer than anyone had expected. With only a few minutes left, the scores were equal. Our team had been waiting for this match all year. We had lost last time, so everyone was giving it their all to win this time. I was sitting near the bleachers as I had a minor injury. I was keeping track of the scoreboard beside me. Then within less than a minute our captain, Arjun scored a basket. The crowd erupted with applause. Our team had won! Everyone rushed to the court, cheering and celebrating our win. Teachers congratulated us on our victory and I was happy too, because we had finally done it!

As Arjun and the others were celebrating our win, I slipped out of the crowd to collect my bag from the bleachers. That was when I noticed something strange on the scoreboard. The score for our team had been increased by two whole points, but I was sure that the previous basket had already been added. I checked the scoresheet beside me and noticed that the point had been accidently counted twice. We had actually lost by one point.

I turned around and saw my teammates rejoicing our win and taking pictures with the trophy while the opposite team left the court with sad smiles after congratulating our team. If I stayed quiet our team would have won, but at what cost? I saw Arjun with the trophy. He had been our captain for two years now and he had always told us that winning was important, but playing honestly was more important.

I walked towards him and excused ourselves from the crowd. He followed me to the scoreboard and I showed him the scoresheet. His smile disappeared. "Are you sure?" he asked me. I nodded. He looked at the trophy in his hands and said, "We should tell them."

"If we do, we lose" I said as a gentle reminder, though the decision was already made between us.

"I know" he said as he sighed and handed the trophy to me "then let's go tell them."

We told the organizers about the mistake. The scores were checked again and the other team was declared as the winner. Our team was disappointed and some were even angry at us. One of them also said, "You could not have told them." I just smiled and looked at the other team cheering with joy. Yes, maybe we could have kept it to ourselves, but we chose not to, and we did not regret it even a tiny bit. We had lost the trophy but I felt like we had won something more important, that is a kind of character a trophy could never give us. That day I realized that Integrity means doing the right thing even if it means giving up something you really want.

ईमानदारी से आत्मविश्वास

मनुष्य की पहचान केवल उसकी सफलता ज्ञान या प्रतिभा से नहीं बल्कि उसके चरित्र निर्माण में अनेक गुणों का योगदान होता है, किंतु सत्यनिष्ठा और ईमानदारी का स्थान सबसे महत्वपूर्ण है। सत्यनिष्ठा व्यक्ति परिस्थितियाँ चाहे कितनी भी कठिन क्यों न हों, सही मार्ग का साथ नहीं छोड़ता । वह अपने कार्यों की जिम्मेदारी स्वीकार करता है और अपने विचारों तथा कर्मों में एकरूपता बनाए रखता है। यही गुण व्यक्ति के भीतर आत्मविश्वास, साहस और आत्मसम्मान को जन्म देते हैं। वास्तव में चरित्र कोई एक दिन में बननेवाली वस्तु नहीं बल्कि हमारे छोटे -छोटे निर्णयों से प्रतिदिन निर्मित होनेवाला व्यक्तित्व है।

आज के समय में सफलता पाने की होड़ में कई बार लोग अपने सिद्धांतों से समझौता कर लेते हैं। ऐसे समय में सत्यनिष्ठा हमें सही और गलत के बीच अंतर समझने की शक्ति देती है। विद्यार्थी जीवन में इसका महत्व और भी अधिक है। परीक्षा में अनुचित साधनों का प्रयोग न करना, गलती होने पर उसे स्वीकार करना, किसी का विश्वास न तोड़ना, दूसरों के अधिकारों का सम्मान करना और बिना किसी स्वास्थ्य के सही कार्य करना ये सभी सत्यनिष्ठा के उदाहरण हैं। जब हम कठिन परिस्थितियों में भी सही विकल्प चुनते हैं, तब हमारा चरित्र मजबूत होता है और समाज में हमारे प्रति विश्वास उत्पन्न होता है।

अंत: चरित्र निर्माण की नींव सत्य, ईमानदारी और नैतिक साहस पर रखी जानी चाहिए। हमें यह याद रखना चाहिए कि परिस्थितियां हमारे सामने अनेक रास्ते रख सकती हैं, परंतु सही रास्ता चुनना हमारे चरित्र को परिभाषित करता है। धन, पद और प्रसिद्धि समय के साथ बदल सकते हैं, लेकिन एक मजबूत चरित्र जीवनभर हमारी पहचान बना रहता है। सच्ची सफलता वहीं है, जिसमें उपलब्धियों के साथ अंतरात्मा भी संतुष्ट हो। इसलिए हमें केवल सफल बनने का नहीं, बल्कि एक सत्यनिष्ठा, जिम्मेदार और श्रेष्ठ इंसान बनने का संकल्प लेना चाहिए।

The Silence on the Riverbank

The afternoon near the Gomti River was warm, but sitting under the shade of the trees felt cool and relaxing. Samar sat on a stone, watching the water while his father rested nearby. Spending time with his father on weekends was something Samar always enjoyed.

While looking around, Samar noticed a small wooden box lying near the roots of a tree, half - covered under dry leaves. Curious, he walked over and picked it up.

Inside was a heavy silver pocket watch with beautiful design carved on it. Next to it was a small piece of paper with a phone number written in blue ink.

Samar's heart started beating fast. He looked around, but the river bank was quiet and empty.

"Look at this, Papa," Samar said, showing him the box. "It looks very old and expensive. Nobody saw me while finding it".

His father looked at the watch and then at Samar. He did not scold him. Instead, he said calmly:

"A lost item belongs to someone's memories, Samar. The real value is not how much money the watch is worth, but what your choice says about you. Integrity means doing the right thing even when no one is watching."

Samar looked at the silver watch in his hand. For a second, he thought about keeping it, since no one was around.

But looking at his father, Samar realized what kind of person be wanted to become.

Without saying anything else, Samar took out his phone and called the number on the paper.

An hour later, an old man arrived at the riverbank, looking worried. When Samar handed him the wooden box, the old man's eyes filled with tears.

"This was a gift from my late wife," the man said with a shaking voice. "I thought I lost it forever." He tried to give Samar some money as a reward, but Samar politely refused.

As Samar and his father walked back home in the evening, Samar's hand was empty, but he felt happy inside. He realized that integrity is not about following rules because someone is looking. Integrity is about making the right choice in quite movements, and that is how strong character is built.

सच का दीप

कण कण जोड़कर बनती है जीवन की दीवार
सत्य और ईमानदारी से मिलता है सच्चा संस्कार।
छुट जाए भले ही सारी दुनिया की दौलत और शान
चरित्र की पूंजी ही है इंसान की सबसे बड़ी पहचान।

अंधेरी राहों में भी जो सदा सच का दीप जलाते हैं
विकट परेशानियों में भी कभी नहीं डगमगाते हैं।
जिसके मन में बसी हो ईमानदारी और नेकी की ढेर
वही व्यक्ति जीवन में पाता है सफलता का स्वर्णिम छोर।

दिखावे की चमक से कभी चरित्र का निर्माण न होता
खोखले होते हैं वे महल जहाँ सच्चाई का बोझ न बोता।
तन-मन और वचन में जब सत्य का ही एकरूपता
तभी इंसान के भीतर झलकती है ईश्वर की दिव्यता।

The Honest Decision

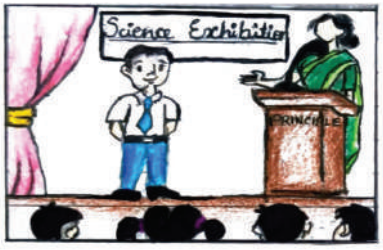

The school announced the Annual Science Exhibition, a week before and there were only two days left for the exhibition. All the students were excited to present their projects. One of them was Aarav, a ninth-grade student, spent days building a Rainwater Harvesting System. He hoped his project would win First prize.

On the morning of the exhibition, while carrying the model to the school, Aarav accidently dropped it. One of the pipes was broken and water leaked from the tank. He felt helpless because there was very little time left.

Seeing his disappointment, one of his classmates said "Take my old project, it looks similar and no one will know the difference". For a movement, Aarav was tempted. He had worked very hard and did not want to lose the competition. But he remembered his teacher's words- "Integrity is doing right thing, even when no one is watching".

He thanked and refused his offer. Aarav decided to repair his own. Using the glue, tape and a pipe he carefully fixed the damaged parts. The model was not perfect, but it worked well enough to demonstrate the idea. When it was his turn, Aarav confidently explained about his project. He also honestly told the judges that his model had broken that morning and that he had repaired it himself instead of using his friends work.

The judges appreciated his honesty and dedication. Though Aarav did not win the First prize, he received a Special Award of Integrity. The principal said about his honesty while distributing the prizes. The stage audience appreciated him. Though Aarav was very disappointed for not winning, but then he realized that the greatest victory was not winning a trophy but earning the trust and respect of everyone. From that day onwards many students were inspired by Aarav's example.

Built from within

We build ourselves with every choice,
with every silence, every voice;
Not with bricks, nor steel nor stone.

Integrity is the unseen thread,
that keeps our promises when words have fled;
It stands when easier roads appear,
and chooses what is right, not what earns cheer.

A character built on borrowed praise,
may crumble under changing days;
But one built quietly, true and strong,
can face the crowd or stand alone.

So let our actions be our name,
not empty words or borrowed fame;
for the finest character we can create is built through Integrity, choice by choice day by day.

The Missing Money

In a city, a girl named Anaya lived in a middle-class family. She was playful, mischievous but good at studies as her parents were strict. She used to hide her brother's shoes as a prank, but she was also the one who would admit it and immediately apologize. Every day she went to school in a bus and her teachers and friends called her 'The Naughty Girl' of her class, but they also trusted her as she was the class monitor.

One day Anaya reached the school early, the classroom was empty and quiet. On the teacher's table lay two things, the attendance register and the class money box which were not locked and the teacher had forgotten to keep it inside the cupboard. As she was the Monitor, she had the cupboard's key. She opened the cupboard and kept the box safely without even touching the money inside. She locked the cupboard again and put the key back in her bag. She did this because she wanted to keep the class money safe.

After 10 minutes the class came in and the teacher entered the class. Everybody stood and wished the teacher. The teacher said "Today we have to count the class fund and deposit it in the school office". The teacher asked Anaya to give her the cupboard key. She starts counting the money but to her surprise, the amount was less by Rs. 200/- from the class fund was missing. Everyone in the class went silent and started looking at each other. A boy stood up and said "ma'am, Anaya came to school early today and I also saw her keeping the box inside the cupboard". Hearing this, the teacher looked at Anaya and asked her, "Anaya, is it true? Did you take the money?". Anaya replied confidently, "No ma'am, I didn't take the money. I only kept the box inside because it was lying open on the table". The teacher trusted her but a girl who was jealous of her studies said "ma'am, though Anaya always gets first rank, we also call her the naughtiest girl in the class, so why would she not have taken the money?". Hearing this, the teacher decided to check the CCTV.

The CCTV showed that Anaya only kept the box in the cupboard and locked it. She did not touch the money. The teacher was very happy with her honesty, but still wanted to find the missing money. She opened the cupboard and checked it carefully. To everyone's surprise she found that Rs. 200/- had slipped from the money box and had fallen behind the books in the cupboard. The teacher picked up the money and now the amount was complete. All the students felt guilty for blaming Anaya and apologized. The teacher was very proud of her honesty and said "Anaya, you have shown true integrity".

Pride of Integrity

Do right when nobody is looking,
That's where true character is cooking.
A small yes to truth, a no to lie,
Integrity helps us reach the sky.

Honesty first, in work and play,
Keep your word, come what may.
Admit mistakes, don't pass the blame,
That's how we protect our name.

Shortcuts shine but don't last long,
Integrity keeps us firm and strong.
It gives us peace, it gives us pride,
A light we carry deep inside.

Brick by brick we build each day,
The person we choose to be, that way.
With integrity as our guiding sound,
Our character stands on solid ground.

Owning up my mistake

I still remember a day that taught me the true meaning of integrity. During a class test, my teacher accidentally gave me two extra marks while checking my answer sheet. At first, I felt happy because those marks improved my score. But deep inside, I had not earned them.

After thinking for a while, I gathered the courage to meet my teacher and told her about the mistake. She checked my paper again and corrected the marks. Instead of being disappointed, I felt proud of myself. My teacher appreciated my honesty and said that good character is built through such small but meaningful actions.

That day, I realised that integrity is not about being perfect. It is about doing the right thing even when no one expects you to. Honest decisions may not always bring immediate rewards, but they give us something more valuable i.e., self-respect, peace of mind and the trust of others. Every time we choose honesty over convenience, we become stronger and more confident.

As I reflected on this experience, I understood that character is built on right decision each time. Small acts of honesty, responsibility and fairness shape the kind of person we become. Integrity is not shown only during big moments, it is reflected in the simple choices we make every day. These choices earn us respect and inspire others to act honestly as well.

Building character through integrity is a lifelong journey. When we stay truthful, accept our mistakes, and always choose the right path, we grow into responsible and trustworthy individuals. Integrity is the foundation of a strong character and helps us to create a better society. By living with integrity every day, we inspire others to follow the same path and create a brighter future for everyone. After all, true character is measured not by our achievements, but by the values we choose to live.

'Have the courage to say no. Have the courage to face the truth. Do the right thing because it is right. These are the magic keys to living your life with integrity'

The Path of Integrity

Integrity is the light within,
that makes our character begin.
It whispers truth in every choice,
And turns a soul into a voice.

When honesty become our way,
we earn trust that will not sway.
with every deeds, with every word,
we keep the promises we've heard.

Through challenges, come what may,
Integrity keeps us on our way.
It is the compass in the night,
that guides us towards what is right.

So let us choose the path so true,
in all we do, in all we pursue.
For character built through integrity,
create a better you, a better society.

The Volley Ball

It was a bright summer afternoon. Arya and her best friend, Arni, were enjoying their holidays, playing volleyball in a compound, near the neighborhood.

Arya served the ball with all her might. The ball flew across the compound and crashed straight into their neighbor's window. The glass shattered into tiny pieces. Arya froze. Arni stared at the broken window in shock. They both knew they had made a grave mistake. The house belonged to their neighbour. Mrs. Goel, who was known to be very particular about her home.

"Don't tell anyone!" Arni whispered anxiously. "If we keep quiet, may be nobody will find out that it was us." Arya hesitated, but she agreed. The two friends quickly gathered their things and went home. However, Arya could not forget what had happened. That evening, she sat down to do her homework, but she could not concentrate. The image of the shattered window kept coming back to her. She started feeling guilty.

The next morning, Arya made up her mind. She knew that hiding her mistake was worse than admitting it. Even though Arni had sternly told her not to say anything, Arya decided that she had to tell the truth. She went to Mrs. Goel's house and nervously knocked on the door. "Mrs. Goel, I have to tell you something, "Arya said. "Yesterday, while Arni and I were playing volleyball, I hit the ball too hard and it broke your window. I am really sorry. I should have told you yesterday, but I was afraid."

Mrs. Goel looked surprised and upset. Arya lowered her head, anticipated a scolding from the woman. Instead of getting angry, Mrs. Goel took a deep breath and told her "Arya, I am upset about the broken window, but I am proud that you came here and told me the truth."

Mrs. Goel then revealed the second twist. "Actually, I already knew what happened. My security camera recorded the whole incident. I was waiting to see whether you would come forward and admit your mistake. "Arya felt relieved and embarrassed at the same time. Mrs. Goel smiled and added, "Mistakes can be repaired, but honesty and courage are much more valuable. I hope you will learn to be truthful, even when telling the truth is difficult."

Later that day, Arya met Arni and told her everything. Arni annoyed at first that Arya had gone against her advice. But after hearing what Mrs. Goel had said, she realized that Arya had done the right thing. Together, they apologized to Mrs. Goel for the broken window.

That day, Arya learned an important lesson: telling the truth may be difficult at first, but having courage and integrity to admit our mistakes always makes us stronger.

Integrity: The Quiet Strength within us

In a world where appearances often matter more than reality, Integrity is becoming increasingly important. We live surrounded by opinions, expectations and pressure to fit in. Sometime, we change the way we behave depending on who is around us. Integrity is the ability to remain the same at heart, even when circumstances change.

Integrity is not about being flawless. In fact, a person with integrity can make mistakes, change their opinions and admit when they are wrong. What matters is that they do not deliberately abandon their principles just to gain approval or avoid consequences. They understand what they believe in and have the courage to stand by it.

Integrity also means treating people consistently. It is easy to be respectful towards someone when they are useful to us or when others are watching. The real measure of our character is whether we continue to treat people with fairness when there is nothing to gain from it.

The world does not always reward integrity immediately. The honest choice may be inconvenient. Sometimes standing by our principles means standing alone for a while. Yet, integrity gives us something more valuable than temporary approval: a sense of trust in ourselves.

Ultimately, integrity is the quiet connection between our words and actions. It is what keeps us grounded when everything around us encourages us to change for acceptance. Achievements may tell the world what we have accomplished, but integrity tells the world, and ourselves, who we truly are.

Every morning, Vikram stood in front of the mirror and asked himself one question "What kind of person am I becoming?"

He was a young professional in a rapidly growing company. Intelligent, ambitious and hardworking. Vikram had earned respect through years of dedication. But one promotion stood between him and the position he had always dreamed of.

One evening, his manager called him into the office. "I have good news," the manager said. "You are being considered for the regional leadership position. But I need one small favour." He placed a confidential financial report on the table.

"There is a mistake in the report. If we hide it until next quarter, the company will look more profitable. Everyone benefits including you."

Vikram stared at the document.

"It was only one number."
"One signature"
"One decision."

Yet he knew it could change everything.

That night, Vikram could not sleep. His mind argued with itself.

"Everyone does it."
"It is only temporary."
"If I refuse, someone else will take the promotion."

Then another thought appeared.
"What is the value of success if I have to become someone I cannot respect?"

The next morning, Vikram returned to his manager. "I cannot approve this report," he said. "The mistake must be corrected."

His manager's expression changed.

"You understand what you're risking?"
"Yes", Vikram replied. "I may lose the promotion. But I refuse to lose my Integrity."

For several weeks, nothing happened. Vikram was disappointed. Some colleagues even mocked him. But he continued working honestly.

Three months later, an external audit discovered serious financial problems in the company. The same report Vikram had refused to manipulate became important evidence. The manager who had pressurized him, resigned. Management informed Vikram "We are promoting you because, when your values were tested, you did not sell them for convenience".

Vikram received the leadership position. But the promotion was not what made him proud.

He finally understood that Integrity is not about being prefect.
It is about telling the truth when lying would be easier.

It is about doing the right thing, even when there is no applause, no reward and sometimes no witness.

Years later, Vikram became known, not merely as a successful leader, but as a trusted leader; and that distinction mattered.

Because success can give us a position.

Money can give us comfort.

Power can give us influence.

But integrity gives us credibility, dignity and self-respect.

Integrity: Pillar of character

In today's fast changing world, knowledge and talent alone are not enough to achieve lasting success. Success is often measured by wealth, fame and power: the true mark of a great person is character. Character is not built by chance; it is built through integrity. Integrity means being honest, responsible and morally strong in every situation. It is the inner voice that guides us to choose what is right instead of what is easy.

A person with integrity remains truthful even when telling the truth is difficult. Such a person keeps promises, accepts mistakes and treats everyone with fairness and respect. These simple actions create trust and it is the foundation of every strong relationship. As Warren Buffet wisely said, "The most important thing is to look for three qualities in a person: Integrity, Intelligence and Energy. If they don't have the first, the other two will kill you"

History remembers great leaders like Mahatma Gandhi, Lal Bahadur Shastri and Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam not only for their achievements but also for their honesty and noble character. Their lives remind us that Integrity is the greatest strength a person can possess.

Student can build character through integrity by respecting teachers, helping classmates and taking responsibility for their actions. These habits may seem small, but they shape future leaders, honest professionals and responsible citizens.

In conclusion, integrity is the strongest pillar of character. It gives us the courage to stand for truth and the confidence to face every challenge. Let us choose honesty over shortcuts and values over victory. We will not only become better citizens and society but also contribute to build a brighter Nation.

When character is built on integrity, success becomes meaningful, respect becomes permanent and life becomes truly inspiring.

The Test of Integrity

Ayushman was a fifteen-year-old student who was known in his school for being intelligent hardworking, and friendly. His poor parents always reminded him that good marks were important, but good character was even more important. His father often said, "Knowledge can make you successful but integrity makes you worthy of success". Ayushman understood these words, although he had never faced a difficult test of his honesty. One Monday morning, the principal announced that the annual scholarship examination would be held the following week. The student who scored the highest marks would receive a scholarship and a trophy. Ayushman wanted to win because his family could use the scholarship money for his education.

Ayushman studied sincerely every day. However, the night before the examination, his friend Sameer sent him a message. Sameer had somehow obtained a copy of the question paper. He offered to share it with Ayushman. "Everyone is trying to get it", Sameer said, "If you study these questions, tonight, we can both get the highest marks". Ayushman stared at the message for a long time. He desperately wanted the scholarship. He knew that having the question paper would almost guarantee victory. Yet, something inside him told him that winning dishonestly would not be a real achievement. He remembered his father's words and replied, "I want to win, but I want to win honestly". Sameer laughed and called him foolish. Ayushman ignored him and continued studying from his textbooks.

The next morning, the examination began, the questions were difficult, and Ayushman struggled with some of them. He noticed that Sameer was answering quickly because he had already seen the question paper. For a moment, Ayushman felt tempted to look at Sameer's answers. But he stopped himself. He reminded himself that integrity meant doing the right thing even when nobody is watching.

When the results were announced, Sameer stood first and Ayushman came second. Ayushman was disappointed, but he was proud that he had remained honest. A few days later, the teachers discovered that the question paper had been leaked. They investigated and learnt that Sameer had received it illegally. His result was cancelled, and the scholarship was awarded to the student with the highest genuine score. To everyone's surprise Ayushman was the winner.

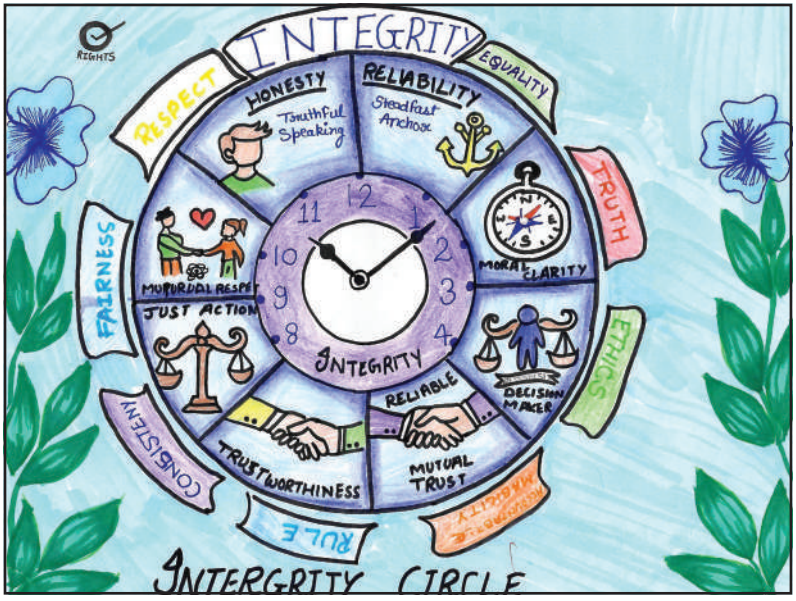

The principal called Ayushman to the stage and praised him in front of the entire school. “Ayushman has shown us that integrity is more valuable than success gained through shortcuts. Honesty has made his achievement truly meaningful”. That evening, his father hugged him proudly. “You may have lost the opportunity”, he said, “but you gained something far greater – you strengthened your character”.

Ayushman smiled. He finally understood that integrity is not a quality we develop in a single day. It is built through the small choices we make whenever we are faced with temptation.

Moral: Good character is always built through integrity.

मानवता का सच्चा धन

सत्य मार्ग पर जो चलता है,
जीवन में वही निखरता है।
सच्चाई की नींव पर जो टिका ,
सच्चा चरित्र उसी का बनता है।

कठिन परिस्थितियाँ जब आएँ ,
पथ से हमको बहका न पाएं।
ईमानदारी का दीप जलाकर,
हम हर आँधियारें को मिटाएँ।

छल और कपट से दूर रहें,
कर्तव्य पथ पर सदा बढ़ें।
कहे हुए वचनों को निभाकर,
आदर्श नया एक रोज़ गढ़ें।

निष्ठा और सत्य का जो आभूषण,
कर देता जीवन का रोशन।
ईमानदारी ही चरित्र बनाती,
राही है मानव का सच्चा धन।

A Journey Worth Remembering! It started quite simply; I gave my name for the Integrity Club without really knowing what the experience would hold. And the next thing I knew, I was selected! What initially felt like a random decision turned into a wonderful journey filled with learning, creativity and experiences that I will always cherish. I am truly grateful to my school and mentors for giving me this opportunity and choosing me to be a part of the club.

Integrity club was a small but a memorable group. Throughout the year, we attended motivational sessions that inspired us to think differently and to look at things from another perspective. We also explored several stories and history behind various things making learning much more interesting than simply reading about them.

The club also gave us a platform to express our creativity. Some of us wrote poems, stories and slogans, while the others made beautiful drawings and art work. The most exciting part was seeing some of these being published in the magazine.

Looking back, I realize that Integrity club was much more than just another school activity. It gave us opportunities to learn, think, create and express ourselves. What began with me simply giving my name unexpectedly became a journey full of meaningful experiences and memories.

Sometimes, the best experiences really do begin with something as simple as saying, "Why Not?".

बेईमानी से अमीर होना'

Integrity Club was a wonderful initiative in our school by the HAL management. It provides a platform which stressed on building character – through Integrity. I came across several companions with similar mindset and interests and we wanted to instill good values and shape up our personalities. My first experience was amazing – when teachers told us about the importance of upholding Integrity throughout our life. Integrity club makes us responsible citizens and we promise to bequeath these values to our juniors. Me and my companions look forward to learn more from the Integrity Club and perceive honesty in whatever we do and lead our lives with Integrity.

एच ए एल न्यू पब्लिक स्कूल में इंटीग्रिटी(सत्यनिष्ठा) सर्कल तक का मेरा सफर एक नन्हे पौधे की तरह है जिसे ईमानदारी की बूँदों ने सींचा है। शुरुआत में मैं इस समूह में सिर्फ इस लिए शामिल होना चाहती क्योंकि मेरे मित्र इसमें थे, पर फिर मेरी ऑखें खुली और मुझे समझ आया कि दूसरों के मार्ग पर चलना केवल अपनी पहचान खोना है। सच तो यह है कि मंजिल से ज्यादा खूबसूरत सफर होता है। दो साल की मेहनत और लगन के बाद इस सर्कल का हिस्सा बनकर आज मैं गर्व से कह सकती हूँ कि इंटीग्रिटी सर्कल ईमानदारी और सत्यनिष्ठा की वह उपजाऊ वाटिका है, जिसने मुझे बिना किसी डर के सच के साथ खड़े होने वाला एक भरोसेमंद इंसान बनाया है।

खुद को तराशा, सच को अपनाया,

सत्यनिष्ठा से ही सच्चा मुकाम पाया।

Integrity circle activity really made me pause and look inward to my own daily choices. I realized that building character is not about big public gesture, but about the quite decisions I make when nobody is looking. True Integrity means being honest with myself first. Integrity is the silent compass that guides the soul when no eyes behold. The Integrity Circle is not merely a forum; it is a sanctum where conscience is kindled and character is chiseled.

Under the noble theme, "Building Character Through Integrity," our quills and brushes became instruments of virtue. Through stories, poems and paintings, we did not just create art - we confessed our faith in truth. To see our thoughts bloom under the umbrella of Integrity Circle, publishing of 'Disha' Magazine made us to feel that honesty still has a voice, and it is ours.

Integrity circle activities transformed abstract values into core practice. Engaging in dynamic team challenges, reflective exercise and one's self- evaluations made the true power of the ethical leadership crystal clear. Integrity is not just about making the right choices when watched; it is the silent foundation of true character. Navigating these real -world ethical dilemma showed us that consistency builds unwavering trust. Each experience reinforced that standing by our principles shapes not only who we are but how we inspire others. I leave inspired, equipped and fully committed to leading with honesty, accountability and purpose in every future endeavor.
